

Teachers without Frontiers

ITA was pleased to conduct a three day workshop on “Inclusive Education” coping with mainstreaming challenges on June 10-12. The program instructor Dr. Kausar Waqar has a degree in medicine from Sindh Medical College as well as a Masters in special education and is a gold medal recipient from the Karachi University. She will also be participating in the summer training at PSU New Hampshire USA, this coming July. Twenty five participants from government/ Non -Govt, private and training centers of Lahore benefited from the insights gained and discussed through the course of the workshop. Dr. Waqar covered and facilitated group discussions on topics ranging from Pedagogical theories of Learning to various models of disability and special educational needs. The basic premise of “No child left behind” in the context of inclusive education was the highlight of this training workshop. This training workshop also focused attention on various other educational areas of concern that could possibly be taken up in future.
