identify the more than 6000 locations in the earthquake affected areas. A Gazetteer or Place Finder allows users to list the names of villages within a certain administrative boundary, or view the GPS coordinates for each recorded location.

The Map Pak map viewer puts maps and spatial queries into the hands of the average computer user. Easy to understand tools are available to zoom in and out of the map, move around and measure distances. A search tool is available to move to a specific place quickly. Clicking on a feature on the map with the identify tool opens a database window to reveal the information stored within the databases that are linked with the map features.

The user controls the content of the map by switching the available map layers on or off.

Version 1 of the Map Pak contains information on roads and rivers, settlements, administrative boundaries and the impact area and epicenter of the earthquake. Frequent updates will be issued for those locations that are liable to change, such as Helicopter landing sites (Helipads), IDP Camps, Health Facilities and Storage Sites. Several images can be called up as a backdrop, such as topography and a satellite image.

The data were compiled by several agencies involved in the emergency relief effort, such as the Humanitarian Information Center (HIC), the Joint Logistics Center (JLC), the World Health Organization (WHO), the Federal Relief Commission (FRC) and SUPARCO.

The Map Pak CD is available at the OCHA/HIC office at House 124, Street 11, E7 in Islamabad. It is distributed free of charge to organizations involved in the earthquake relief effort. For further information please contact HIC, hicpakistan.info@un.org
